ALASHAN TWILL

Born in the Alashan Plateau, crafted for distinction. Located in the western reaches of Inner Mongolia, the Alashan region is famed for producing the world's finest cashmere. This exceptional fibre, prized for its long, ultra-fine filaments, stands out for its remarkable softness and natural sheen. The refined worsted cashmere yarn spun from it is then woven into a Batavia Twill by the skilled hands of Piacenza 1733. A tailoring fabric with a full, elegant body, soft and sophisticated for outstanding suits and jackets.

Suit 100% Alashan Cashmere

Tailoring Excellence: Where softness meets structure, for a refined and modern look.

Natural Comfort: The exceptional length of the fibers ensures a naturally elastic structure, supporting flexibility and durability over time.

Superior Quality: Worsted yarn, extremely fine and even, for a smooth and impeccable hand feel.

Effortless Elegance: A fabric that moves with you—soft, supple, and perfectly balanced between structure and comfort.

Vibrant Colors: Long, white fibers that enhance rich and luminous shades, developed in a wide range of colours.

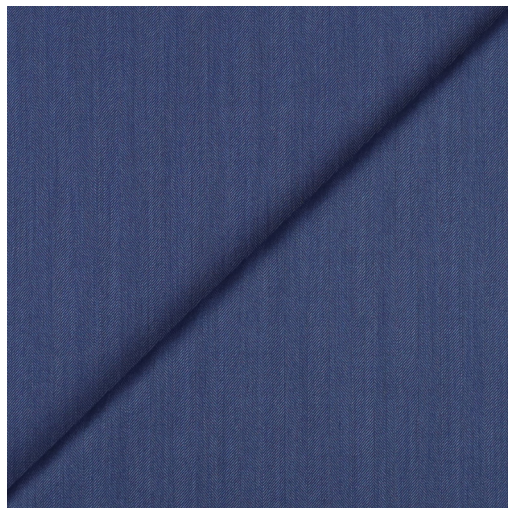

A fabric crafted for those who demand the best and for those who settle for nothing less than perfection.
